SpringBoard sets meetings to teach about civilian Air Force jobs

Scientists from the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base met with Juneau high school, Juneau middle school and University of Alaska students in early May to discuss civilian careers in the Air Force, research opportunities and internships.

Woodby, Logan Miller, Nathan Ord, Rachel Donahoe and Annika Ord.

The classroom meetings were hosted by SpringBoard, a program of the Juneau Economic Development Council and a partnership with the U.S. Dept of Defense.
